

the 1990s, the number of people with a diagnosis of schizophrenia has increased in the United Kingdom (Meltzer et al. 1998). This has led to a growing reliance on the use of drugs to manage the condition.

There is a growing awareness of the need to develop a more holistic approach to the management of people with a diagnosis of schizophrenia. This approach should take account of the needs of the individual, the family, and the community. It should also take account of the needs of the health care system.

The purpose of this paper is to discuss the need for a more holistic approach to the management of people with a diagnosis of schizophrenia. It will also discuss the role of the health care system in this approach.
