Foreword

With the continuous advancement of the world, the education sector too is transformed. Therefore, if we require the creation of a student community who could confront the future challenges successfully, our learning teaching process must constantly utilize effective approaches. It is our responsibility to disseminate the knowledge of the new world while assisting to create global citizens with good values. Our department is actively engaged in producing learning tools with the great aim of contributing to enlighten the minds of the children of the country.

A textbook is a repository of knowledge. At times, it takes us to a world of entertainment while developing our critical thinking faculties. It promotes our hidden potentials. In the coming years, the memories related to these textbooks will bring you happiness. While making the maximum use of this valuable learning tool, you must essentially access other useful knowledge spaces too. This textbook is offered to you free of charge as a great gift of the free education. Only you can add a value to the great fortune that has been spent by the government to print these textbooks. I wish that you would gain the ability to enlighten the future as citizens with knowledge and values by using this textbook.

I would like to bestow my sincere thanks on the panels of writers, editors and reviewers as well as on the staff of the Educational Publications Department for the contribution made on this endeavor.

A Word to the Teacher.....

The Boards of Writers and Editors are honoured to be a part of this national endeavour to write and edit the Grade 09 English textbook and workbook for the students of this country. The textbook is designed to help the students to learn and use language in different situations locally and internationally. The book also contains additional information for the teachers in the form of competency levels and the corresponding activities with the hope of making the task of teaching easier. Furthermore, the book is designed to accommodate the different and varying proficiency levels of the students with the hope of addressing the needs of the larger student population of this country. In addition, the lessons are chronologically sequenced to avoid any confusion that may arise in the teaching process.

It is recommended that this book be used as a guide to the teachers and the students on the expected national standards, and teachers are encouraged to use supplementary material as much as possible in the classroom. We thank all those who worked with us and hope that we will be able to make a difference in the lives of our students who are keen and enthusiastic to learn English.

Everybody is Good at Something 1

Activity 1 Act out

Malith and Pubudu are talking about a TV programme.

Malith : Hello Pubudu, did you watch the finals of “Children Can Sing” on TV yesterday?

Pubudu : Yes, I did. You know, all my family are music lovers. So, we watched it all together.

Malith: There was quite a large audience at the show, wasn’t there?

Pubudu: Yes, the hall was full. And what about the boy who came first? He had a great voice.

- Malith: He sure did. The audience were already clapping their hands when his name was announced.
- Pubudu: Yes, they must have guessed all along that he was going to be the winner.
- Malith: What about the orchestra? It was quite big. There were nearly thirty members in it.
- Pubudu: Yes, the orchestra were all talented. They did a wonderful job.
- Malith: Yes, you took the words right out of my mouth!

Activity 2 Reading

Answer the following questions.

1. What is the TV programme mentioned in the dialogue?
 2. Did Pubudu watch it alone?
 3. Who had a great voice?
 4. How many members did the orchestra consist of?
 5. ‘You took the words right out of my mouth.’ What does this mean?
 - a) I didn’t understand what you said.
 - b) I was going to say the same thing.
 - c) I don’t agree with you.
5. Find words in the conversation which mean much the same as the following.
- i.) said officially or in public:
 - ii.) almost:
 - iii) a group of listeners or spectators:

Learning point

Collective Nouns

When we use a collective noun, we can use either a singular or a plural verb. The choice depends on whether we see the group as a whole or as a number of individual members.

We use a singular verb if the group acts as a single unit, and a plural verb when the members of the group act as a number of individuals.

e.g. :- 1) There was quite a large audience.

(The audience seen as a unit)

2) The audience were already clapping their hands.

(The audience seen as a group of people acting individually)

Here is a list of common collective nouns.

army	committee	orchestra
audience	crew	public
board	family	staff
band	jury	team

Activity 3 Vocabulary

Fill in the blanks with the words given in the box.

crew, team, there, has, are

- 1) A cricket consists of eleven players.
- 2) The medical team discussing how they can tackle the dengue problem.
- 3) was a TV crew at the ceremony.
- 4) The ship's were all saved by the Navy.
- 5) The band only one guitarist.

Activity 4 Vocabulary

Fill in the blanks with the correct verb.

- 1) Their family (is/are) smaller than ours.
- 2) The crowd (was/were) cheering at the top of their voices.
- 3) There..... (is/are) a small crowd outside the gate.
- 4) All her family.....(is/are) vegetarians.
- 5) The cricket team..... (has/have) just finished their warm-up exercises.

Activity 5 Reading

Read the text and answer the questions.

Abilities and Talents

Different people have different abilities and talents. For example, among us there are people who are artistically inclined. They may have a host of talents such as music, dancing or painting - to name but a few. Then there are those who have a natural ability for technical activities such as working with electronic gadgets.

Many of us are usually fortunate enough to find out early in life what we are really good at and make a success of it. However, as implied by the popular saying, 'You do not know what you can do till you try,' some people fail to discover their true potential. A child, for example, may just sit somewhere with a box of crayons beside him, but he will never be able to find out if he has the makings of an artist until he starts working with crayons.

What really lies beneath someone's success in any field is dedication and hard work. James Watt or the Wright brothers, for example, did not make their inventions overnight. They were driven by true interest in what they were trying to achieve. So, we should all aim at deriving the maximum benefit and satisfaction from our abilities and talents.

- 1) Name two things that artistically - inclined people are good at.
- 2) What is the popular saying quoted in the passage?
- 3) Who are the inventors mentioned?
- 4) What helped them to be successful in their work?
- 5) Find words from the text which mean much the same as the following:
 - i) by the side of:
 - ii) find for the first time:
 - iii) lucky:
 - iv) highest:

Learning point

Prepositions

Prepositions link words. They are used before nouns, pronouns and the - ing form of verbs to show place, position, time, direction, purpose, etc.

- e.g. :-
- 1) Fish live in water. (noun)
 - 2) My best friend is Suresh. I often borrow story books from him. (pronoun)
 - 3) My brother is good at solving crossword puzzles. (-ing form of verb)

Activity 6 Grammar

Study the prepositions highlighted in the text 'Abilities and Talents'.
among, for, of, beside, beneath, from

Now complete the following sentences, using the above prepositions.

- 1) The little girl was sitting _____ her mother.
- 2) Some _____ the mangoes in the bag aren't ripe enough.
- 3) I received this picture postcard _____ my uncle in Canada.
- 4) Most children have a liking _____ chocolate.
- 5) The river flows very fast _____ the bridge.

Activity 1 - Act out

Yohan and Meena are at the supermarket with their mother.

Mother : We need a kilo of beans, 500 grams of pumpkin and a bundle of spinach.

Meena : I'll get them. They are in the produce section.

- Mother : Thanks, Meena. Yohan, could you get a packet of flour and half a dozen eggs?
- Yohan : Sure. Anything else?
- Mother : Yes, a carton of fresh milk. Oh, and while you're there, get a tub of yoghurt too.
- Yohan : Okay. I also need a box of coloured pencils.
- Meena : Mother, those mangoes look fresh, yummy and juicy. Can we buy some?
- Mother : Alright, but only two, please.
- Yohan : Mother, I couldn't find the pencils.
- Mother : (to the shop assistant) Excuse me, where can I find a box of coloured pencils?
- Shop assistant : They're in the stationery section, next to the cosmetics section.
- Mother : Thanks. We need vegetable oil also.
- Shop assistant : Sorry, it's out of stock. We have coconut oil.
It's in aisle 2.
- Mother : Thank you. Well, that's all. Let's go to the checkout counter.
- Cashier : Good afternoon, madam! How would you like to pay?
- Mother : In cash.
- Cashier : That'll be 890 rupees.
- Mother : Here you are.
- Cashier : Thank you. Have a lovely day!
- Mother : Thanks. You too.

Activity 2 Reading

Activity 7 Reading

Ram's grandmother Mrs. Rani Fernando wants to deposit 10,000 rupees in her bank account. Therefore, Ram has accompanied his grandmother to the bank. She cannot fill in the slip on her own as she has forgotten her spectacles. Imagine you are Ram and help your grandmother to fill in the cash deposit slip.

Fill in the deposit slip given in activity 3 of your workbook unit 2.

Learning point

Punctuation Marks - The comma

Commas are used:

- to separate items in a list:

▲ a series of nouns

e.g. :- We have a cat, a dog and a parrot.

▲ a series of verbs

e.g. :- The boy ran, stumbled and fell down.

▲ a series of adjectives

e.g. :- My mother is beautiful, kind and intelligent.

- to enclose details

Sri Lanka, one of the most beautiful countries in the world, is my motherland.

Suresh, who is an avid reader, buys at least two new books a month.

- after interjections – well, yes, hello, hey

e.g. :- Hello, how are you?

Yes, I do./No, I don't.

- before tag questions

e.g. :- You're coming, aren't you?

- after a dependent clause

e.g. :- When I go to Kandy, I always visit my aunt.

When the dependent clause follows the independent clause, the comma is not used.

e.g. :- I always visit my aunt when I go to Kandy.

- between two independent clauses (sentences) that are joined with a coordinating conjunction – and, but, or, so, for, nor, yet

e.g. :- It was a rainy day, yet I went to school.

Activity 8 Punctuation

Rewrite the sentences inserting commas where necessary.

1. I painted my room blue pink and white.
2. Mr. Perera my next-door neighbour is a nice gentleman.
3. We are having rice dhal curry fried brinjal and a salad for lunch.
4. If you work hard you will get good results.
5. “He is your little brother isn’t he?”
6. A: Have you read Madol Doowa the famous children’s novel?
B: Yes I have.

Activity 9 Punctuation

Rewrite the paragraph, adding commas where necessary. Then read the paragraph aloud.

Last Sunday I went to the fair with my aunt. The place was crowded with men women and children. The fair was filled with all kinds of things. There were fruit vegetables pots clothes toys and many other items. Everybody was either buying or selling something. My aunt bought some rice vegetables and fruit while I bought a toy car a blue pencil box and some candyfloss. While I was there I also met Harin my best friend from primary school.

Activity 10 Reading

Read the text and answer the questions.

Goods and Services

Every living being has needs and wants. Neither humans nor animals can live without having their needs fulfilled. We need food to eat, a place to live in and clothes to wear. We also need doctors when we are sick, teachers to provide us with education and bankers to help us in financial matters. Because the needs and wants are important, every society has ways to get them fulfilled. In economics, some of our needs and wants fall into two categories. They are goods and services.

Goods are objects or things we can use or consume. Food, clothes, furniture, books, computers and everything else we use are goods. They are either made or grown. It is the duty of the manufacturers to produce goods to match the needs of people. These goods are sold to consumers and a profit is earned by the traders.

Services are actions. A service is work that someone provides for someone else. Fields like education, transportation, health and postal services come under this category. Some services are given free while some have to be paid for.

Sri Lanka, which is a developing country, provides free education and medical facilities to all its citizens. Such facilities are not available free of charge even in some first world countries.

1. a) What are some of the needs mentioned in the text?
b) What are goods?
c) What are services?
d) Name two services provided free of charge in Sri Lanka.
2. Match the words with the correct meanings.

a. consume	i. make or manufacture
b. produce	ii. gain
c. profit	iii. eat, drink or use up

Activity 1 - Act out

The Prefects' Guilds of Gajaba M.V. and Kanaganayagam M.V. have jointly organized "The International Conference for Student Leaders" for the first time in Sri Lanka. Student leaders from 10 different countries are invited to this conference. Different grades have been assigned different responsibilities. The grade 9 pupils have been given the responsibility of welcoming and ushering the guests. A group of friends from the two schools meet to discuss what they have to do.

- Madhavi: Hi! I hope I'm on time.
- Pavith: Yes, you are. Now that all are here, shall we start?
- Nipuna: Well, have you thought of how we should welcome our guests?
- Pavith: Sounds like you've got a plan up your sleeve.
- Nipuna: Actually, I have.
- Ajayan: That's great!
- Ashani: So, tell us about it, Nipuna.
- Nipuna: Alright. The most common form of welcoming guests at international conferences is shaking hands, but each culture has its own form of greeting guests.
- Ajayan: Is that so? Are you sure?
- Nipuna: Wait till I finish. We all need to be mindful about how we greet people.

- Pavith: Ah, why is that?
- Nipuna: Well, for example, in some cultures women do not shake hands with men.
- Madhavi: Mmm.... that's true. Are there any countries that greet their guests like we do?
- Ashani: Yes, there are many, like India and Nepal.
- Nipuna: They say 'Namaste' while we say 'Ayubowan' and 'Wannakum' and we all use the same gesture.
- Ashani: Yes.
- Ajayan: You know, even in Thailand, they use the same gesture.
- Pavith: And the Japanese, they bow like this.
(bows and shows)
- Madhavi: OK, now that we have some information, what do we do next?
- Ashani: Why don't we go to the computer lab to find some more information?

Activity 2 Reading

Ashani : She did.

5) Chalindu : Hope we have enough water for the trip.

Navindu : Yes, we do.

Activity 6 Reading

Given below is an article read by Nisala, who is a prefect. He read the article to get an idea about the utensils the delegates would use when eating. Read it aloud and answer the questions.

The tools used for eating food vary around the world. They include spoons, chopsticks, forks, etc. These utensils mostly depend on the kind of food people eat. Spoons, forks and knives are commonly found in western countries such as England, Germany and France.

However, they vary in shape and size depending on the purpose. For example, table fork, fruit fork and dessert fork vary in size.

Chopsticks have been used in East Asia for many years. They are used in countries such as China, Japan and Korea. However, it is said that the Chinese were the first to use them.

Apart from that, people in some countries use fingers to eat. For instance, in Sri Lanka people use fingers to mix the curries with their rice. In Ethiopia people use their right hand to eat food. Their staple food is 'injera', a pancake-like flat bread which is usually served on a large flat plate. This is topped with all types of curries. They use pieces of 'injera' to scoop the curries. Similarly, Indians too have the habit of scooping the vegetables and other curries with 'naan' or 'chapathi'. Many people in Mexico too use 'tortillas' to scoop rice, beans and other food. However, at present people all over the world, across different cultures use forks, knives and spoons even to eat their own local dishes.

- 1) State whether the following are 'True' or 'False'.
- a) People around the world use different utensils for eating.
 - b) Most western countries only use spoons for eating.
 - c) Most people in East Asian countries use chopsticks when eating.
 - d) 'Injera' is the staple food in Mexico.

- 2) Complete the following table.

Country/Countries	Utensil(s) used for eating

- 3) Write what is meant by the following words/phrases highlighted in the text.
- a) them
 - b) this
- 4) Suggest a suitable title for this text.

Activity 7 Grammar

- a) Find all the adjectives given in activity 6.
- b) Write sentences using the adjectives you have found.

Activity 8 Groupwork

Imagine that you are asked to deliver a speech on healthy food at the school assembly. Write down the points for the speech and then deliver the speech to the class.

Activity 9 Reading

Madhavi and Ashani were interested in different types of food. They found the recipe for preparing ‘uppumavu’. The following are the ingredients of the recipe.

Ingredients:

$\frac{1}{2}$ cup of semolina
1tbsp (table spoon) of oil/ghee
 $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp (tea spoon) of cumin (optional, adds aroma)
 $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp of mustard
1 tsp of chickpeas (optional, adds aroma)
6 – 8 cashews halved and cleaned
1 sprig of curry leaves
A handful of sliced onions
1 hot green chilli, slit
 $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp of ginger very finely chopped (optional)
A pinch of asafetida
1 $\frac{1}{2}$ cups of water

The recipe given below is not in order. Reorder the recipe.

1. Cover the semolina mixed with all at a low flame until the water evaporates (1 - 2 minutes).
2. First, roast semolina on a low to medium heat until crunchy.
3. Pour water and salt as needed to the pan with all fried ingredients.

4. While the roasted semolina cools, add oil to a pan.
5. Then transfer roasted semolina into a bowl and let it cool.
6. Next add onions, ginger, curry leaves and green chilli to the pan with fried chickpeas, cumin, etc. and saute for two minutes. Then add asafetida.
7. Take the pan with uppumavu off the fire and allow it to rest for 5 minutes.
8. Wait till the water boils and then add semolina while mixing all together. Do not allow any lumps to remain.
9. When the oil is heated enough, add chickpeas, cumin, mustard and cashews, and fry them until they turn into golden colour.
10. Finally, the hot tasty uppumavu is ready to serve.
11. Once the water is evaporated, open the lid and mix them again.

(Adapted from <http://indianhealthyrecipes.com/upma-recipe-how-to-make-upma/>)

Learning point

Read the following ingredients taken from the recipe.

½ cup of semolina (half a cup of semolina)

1 ½ cups of water

Water and semolina are uncountable nouns. Note how the plural is formed.

Also note the following.

One bag of rice.

Three bags of rice , three pieces of furniture

Activity 10 Vocabulary

A) Fill in the blanks using the suitable form of the nouns given in brackets.

Activity 7 Reading

The following is a documentary telecast in one of the children's television programmes. Read it and answer the questions.

Dinosaurs are a popular topic when we discuss the prehistoric era. Today, let's unearth more mysteries of this lesser known era.

Have you heard of any prehistoric mammals? If not, you would surely love to see Megatherium¹, an elephant-sized ground sloth. Look at this life-size replica of the megatherium which greets visitors at the Sloth Sanctuary in Costa Rica. Imagine that an elephant-sized hairy animal with giant claws ambling through the landscape, looking for trees it could sit in front of and slowly chew the leaves.

This extinct herbivore stood seven metres tall and weighed seven tons. There are many views in the scientific world about the disappearance of this creature. One of them is that they disappeared as a result of fast changes in the climate. Another is that these sloths had been hunted to extinction by the carnivores.

Now let's look at an extinct carnivorous sea creature. Ammonites² were a group of shelled sea creatures that mysteriously disappeared at the same time as the dinosaurs. Ammonites were invertebrates: creatures without a backbone. Instead, they had a very supportive shell. Ammonites grew as big as one metre in diameter. They probably lived in warm, shallow, tropical areas of the ocean. Their diet consisted of small fish. Ammonites were popular on the menus of larger carnivorous marine creatures, but they would either have had to pull them out from the shell, or have had jaws powerful enough to crush them.

Do you know that Sri Lanka is one of the best sources of prehistoric studies in South Asia? Over 180 prehistoric sites have been found in Sri Lanka including undisturbed human habitats. The caves called *Batadomba Lena*³ a site near Kuruvita, in Ratnapura, Belilena in Kitulgala, Pahiyangala in Bulathsinhala and Aligala, a site near Sigiriya provide such evidence. The excavations are still going on with the involvement of many archaeologists.

Now we have come to the end of today's segment. Hope you would read more on the prehistoric era.

1. /megəθerɪəm/
2. /'æmənənɪt/
3. / lenə/ (lenə in Sinhala means cave in English, /kuhai in Tamil)

1. Write True (T) or False (F).

- I) Dinosaurs were the only creatures that lived in the prehistoric era.
- II) There is a sloth sanctuary in Costa Rica.
- III) Ammonites had a supportive backbone.
- IV) Ammonites were carnivores.

2. Fill in the following grid.

	Megatherium	Ammonites
Diet type (e.g. :- Omnivore)
Diet
Habitat (e.g. :- Land)
Size
Physical features
Threat/s to their lives

3. Match the words with their meaning.

- I) replica - walking in a slow relaxed way
- II) ambling - connected with the time in history before information was written down
- III) invertebrates - an exact copy of something
- IV) prehistoric - animals with no backbone

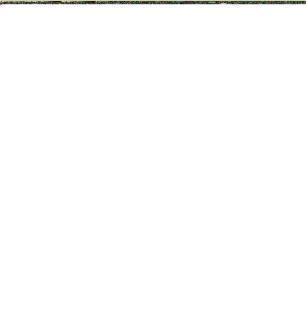

4. What does the following extract mean?
“Ammonites were popular on the menus of larger carnivorous marine creatures”
5. Do you know that a group of scientists are trying to bring the wooly mammoth back to life? Use the following key phrases and write a short description of the wooly mammoth.
You may begin as follows.
The wooly mammoth lived during the prehistoric era...

- Scientific name - Mammuthus primigenius
- Extinct relative of today's elephant
- Diet type - Herbivore
- Physical features - smaller ears than those of elephants, long tusks about 5 metres, hairy
- Habitat - grasslands

Activity 8 Speaking

Speak about the following extinct creature.

* Tyrannosaurus Rex

5 A Second Chance Called ‘Tomorrow’

Activity 1 - Act out

It is the first day of the new school term. Some grade nine students of Kurulugama Maha Vidyalaya are talking about their vacation.

- Chenitha : Good morning, friends! What are you talking about?
- Mihimali : Good morning! We are talking about our vacation.
- Chenitha : Oh, the vacation! It just came and went.
- Mihimali : Hey! That's true. Why do vacations end so fast?

- Farzana : Yes, it's a pity, isn't it? I had planned to do many things during the vacation but couldn't complete most of them.
- Raju : In my case, I managed to do many things. I planted vegetables in our home garden. I watered them every day. I finished all my homework and read three books. I managed to visit the planetarium too.
- Mihimali : That's great. I tidied my room but couldn't go anywhere.
- Chenitha : I wanted to study and prepare short notes but I simply had no time.
- Farzana : No time? Come on! There are twenty four hours in a day!
- Raju : Hmm.... that's true. Maybe, that's just an excuse. I think we waste most of our time.
- Chenitha : You have a point there. My term test marks were not very good. I'll start studying from tomorrow itself.
- Farzana : Yes. Better late than never. Let's have a plan and start studying from tomorrow.
- Mihimali : Have a plan and study? You've got to be kidding! I planned many things but most of them were not successful.
- Raju : Remember the lesson in the grade 8 English textbook? Plan the work, work the plan.

Farzana : Yes, that's true. You have to not only plan the work but also work the plan. And that's what we are going to do from tomorrow!

Activity 2 Reading

Read the conversation and answer the questions.

1. What are the students talking about?
2. Write two things Raju did during the vacation.
3. Who couldn't go anywhere during the holidays?
4. What did Chenitha want to do during the vacation?
5. Why couldn't he do what he had planned?
6. Who says the following?
 - a. "Why do vacations end so fast?"
 - b. "I simply had no time."
 - c. "There are twenty four hours in a day!"
 - d. "Better late than never"

- Read the following sentences taken from the students' conversation. Pay attention to the highlighted parts. They describe future events and actions.

I'll start studying from tomorrow itself.

Let's have a plan and start studying from tomorrow.

That's what we are going to do from tomorrow.

Learning point - Talking about future events

You can use the following different structures to describe future events.

The children will go to the park at the weekend. (Simple future- simple prediction)

Chenitha will be studying for his exam the whole of next week. (Future continuous- An action in progress in the future)

The train leaves at 10'clock. (Simple present tense- Time-tabled events)

Look at the dark clouds. It is going to rain. (Be + going to + verb stem - Prediction based on present evidence)

They are moving into a new house next week. (Present continuous-Arrangements)

Activity 3 Speaking

List five things you have planned to do tomorrow. Describe them to your partner using suitable sentence patterns from those given above.

e.g. :- I will be visiting my grandparents tomorrow.

- Now, complete activity 1 in unit 5 of your workbook.

Activity 4 Reading

100 Metres

27

The playground was large. The sports teacher asked me to wait there and disappeared among the crowd.

I mustn't go anywhere from here.

What a crowd of students! Boys in white shoes and white socks. How smart they look! They must be from the city. I've heard that the boys from the city are a bit arrogant.

"Mudalihamy, this is the under sixteen, hundred meters. Next will be the under thirteen event. You are taking part in that. Don't look so scared. I'm sure you can win," said the sports teacher while pinning number 27 on the front and the back of my vest. I wished the paper was big enough to cover the stain on the front of my vest. Will the city boys see it and laugh at me?

“There, listen! Mudalihamy, your number is being called. Hurry up, my boy!”

How should I go to the starting point? Should I walk or should I run? Some of the boys are wearing shoes with spikes. Will they step on my feet? Will I be able to compete with them and win? One thing is certain. If I win, father, mother and everyone in my family will be happy.

“Come on Saroj!”

“Come on Priyan!”

“Come on Janak!”

Who will say, “Come on Mudalihamy!”? I remember my friends cheering me at the house meet. It gave me a lot of courage that day.

“Ready, steady, go!”

A boy wearing spikes is running fast just next to me. I must run faster than him. Will he step on my foot? Never mind. Let him. I will still run faster. Now it's close to the end. I think I have won.

I heard the loud speaker announcing my name. It was like a dream come true. Everyone was cheering. Everyone was clapping. I couldn't hear what the loudspeaker announced because of the cheering. The boy who was wearing the spiked shoes was on my right. He had won the second place.

“Congratulations Mudalihamy! You were great!” he said, shaking my hand.

The boy who came in third also joined him. I think I was mistaken earlier. After all, city boys are good.

“I knew you would win Mudalihamy. Good boy!” The sports teacher said as he gently stroked my head and tears of joy welled up in my eyes.

The History of Footwear

Historically shoes were worn primarily for protection. According to archaeological evidence, experts believe that shoes were invented about 40,000 years ago. However, it was not until sometime later that footwear was worn by people frequently.

It is hard to imagine a time before the invention of shoes. Yet, what started as a practical venture grew into a varied, booming industry. Though all shoes share basic characteristics, their colouring, materials and designs have transformed drastically over thousands of years.

The earliest shoes were made of soft leather. They resembled either sandals or moccasins. In the early 19th century, women's and men's shoes finally began to differ from one another in style, colour, heel, and toe shape. During this era, shoes were made straight, meaning that there was no differentiation between left and right shoes.

As the 20th century approached, shoemakers improved comfort by making foot-specific shoes. The face of the footwear changed drastically from decade to decade. This was due to the technological advances that made the shoemaking process simpler.

In the early seventies, platform shoes and wedges were popular among women, though they became less so in the eighties and nineties. Men's shoe trends, however, were mostly static, as the types such as oxfords (leather shoes that fasten with lace) and loafers (leather shoes that you can wear without fastening them) remained the dominant styles.

Though men's shoe styles remained relatively unchanged, women's shoes made dramatic changes in their appearance.

Women's shoes became arched, sophisticated and were made to highlight the foot. The heels grew narrower and narrower as time progressed.

At present, the footwear industry has become a thriving business. If footwear trends continue in this fashion, we can expect the shoes of the future to be even more out-of-this-world.

20th January 2018

The Director General,
Ports Authority,
Galle.

Dear Sir,

Request for Permission to Visit the Galle Port

I am the secretary of the Environment Society of Gurulugama Vidyalaya. I am writing this letter to request permission to visit the Galle Port.

The grade 9 students of my school wish to visit the Galle Port on 2nd February. We have a team of 350 students and 10 teachers. We hope to reach the Port around 9 o'clock in the morning and hope to stay there for about three hours. We hope that you will be able to provide the services of a guide to help our students.

I would be glad if you could consider this request.
I'm looking forward to hearing from you.

Thank you,
Yours faithfully,

.....

History tells us about many great people in the world. They have made a name for themselves in different fields of study. Leonardo da Vinci is one such person worth mentioning. Born on April 15, 1452, in Vinci, Italy, Da Vinci is known in the world as an exceptional artist, mathematician, inventor, writer, sculptor, draftsman, etc. His knowledge of science and nature is believed to have greatly influenced his work in different fields. The world famous paintings such as “Monalisa”, “Virgin of the Rocks” and “The Last Supper” are among his great works.

Da Vinci as a child received little formal education with nothing beyond basic reading, writing and mathematics instruction. However, his artistic talents were evident from an early age. At the age of 14 he learned technical skills including metalwork, leather arts, carpentry, drawing, painting and sculpture. He learned all these under the noted artist Andrea del Verrocchio in Florence. A pen-and-ink drawing of a landscape of the Arno valley is known as one of his early - dated work which is believed to have been sketched in 1473.

Martial Arts

Martial art is a form of combat: a traditional form of art found among different nations in different styles. This is practised for self-defence, mental and spiritual development and sometimes for law enforcement. There are two types of martial arts: armed and unarmed. In armed martial arts weapons like swords, shields and daggers are used. However, kicking and punching are commonly used techniques in both armed and unarmed combat.

Styles and techniques used in martial arts differ depending on the application and intention. For example, today many young women learn martial arts for self-defence while some turn to it for mental and spiritual development as well as for physical fitness. Judo, boxing, karate, kickboxing, taekwondo and wrestling are some forms of different types of martial arts.

Angampora or Angam is known as the indigenous fighting art in Sri Lanka. It is believed to have a history which dates back to more than 33000 years. This art is said to have originated from a Yakka warrior. Ancient kings had used this form of fighting art to protect the nation. Angam can be divided into three sections: Angampora, Illangampora and Mayangam. It has been the traditional practice of the Guru to impart Angam knowledge and its secrets only to his most faithful and trustworthy students. Hence, the value and popularity of this form of martial arts has increased over the generations.

A student who takes the Angam oath will enter the training area without headwear or footwear. It is considered as a sacred space made of fine clay and ground coconut fibres. However, the students are trained in different locations such as grasslands, beaches and even swamplands. It is a must for a student to engage in breathing meditation to make his or her combat skills perfect.

- A) State whether the following are True or False.
1. Martial art is practised only as a form of self-defence.

my worries, dreams and ambitions,
everything I LOVE and everything I FEAR

All that I was yesterday and all that I'll be tomorrow is neatly contained in my glorious creations

when you glance over my work, you are catching a glimpse of my soul,
for a part of ME is in each piece I create

I march to my own beat, and wildly dance to my own rhythm passion runs through my veins,

as emotions are fuel for my craft

certain pieces I protect and keep to myself
while other I'll share with the world

I am a creative beacon shining my light brightly for all the universe to see

I am all these things and more

He was given the following topic to speak on

If you are elected as the president of the country ...

The following are some extracts from his speech.

Honourable panel of judges,

My main concerns are public property, environment and student population. So, if I am elected as the president of the country, the following will be implemented immediately.

First of all, strict laws will be imposed against those who acquire public property illegally because it has become a threat to the development of the country.

At the same time, the use of non-eco-friendly material will be prohibited because we have to take swift action to protect our environment.

Programmes will be launched immediately to make the public aware of the importance of saving our natural resources for the benefit of the future generations.

And also schools will be given additional facilities to improve the quality of the education they offer.

Imagine that you are going to speak on the same topic and write your own speech. Use similar structures as highlighted above.

Activity 8 Pre-reading

Discuss in your groups and answer.

1. What are the most essential necessities of man?
2. Why do people need shelter?
3. What are the forms of shelter used by the early man?

Activity 9 Reading

Read and answer the questions.

Food, clothing and shelter are the three most essential necessities of man. Since the beginning of human civilisation, human beings have used different types of shelter to shield themselves from the weather, to protect themselves against wild animals and insects, and as a place to rest. In the prehistoric era, man made use of what was found in the natural environment for shelter. Trees, for example, provided him with protection against the heat of the sun, the cold in the winter and the rain. Trees also protected man against animals that could not climb up trees. Later, man shifted to caves for shelter, which provided greater protection against extreme weather conditions. However, they offered less protection against wild animals.

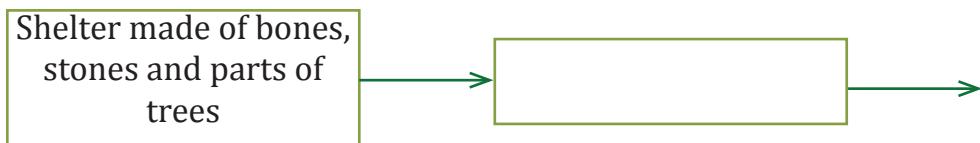

Gradually, man learnt to build a shelter of his own to protect himself. It is believed that man initially made use of bones, stones and even parts of trees to build his shelter. Later, man learnt to use materials like earth which was dried in the sun to form clay blocks. Then, he understood that the blocks of clay became stronger when they were burnt and dried. Man has since then been using different types of material to build houses, including artificially created material. As a result, houses, have changed in shape, form and even size. However, despite the development in the materials used for building houses, it is important to pay attention to the climatic factors when building houses - for example, Inuit houses in the Arctic and houses built in different deserts.

Today, there are many kinds of houses in the world and they are called by different names such as cottage, villa, mansion, bungalow, thatched house, flat, etc., depending on the location, size, material used, facilities available, etc.

[A]

1. What kinds of materials were used by early man to build different forms of shelter?
 2. According to the text, is it important to consider the climatic factors when building houses?
 3. Name some of the types of houses found in the world.
- [B] Design a flow chart to show the evolution of the different types of houses as given in the text.

[C]

1. Do you think that it is important to consider the climatic factors when building houses?
2. Take the houses of the Inuit as an example and explain the reason for your answer.

[D]

Where the air is so pure, and the zephyrs* so free, (2)
the breezes so balmy and light,
that I would not exchange my home on the range,
for all of the cities so bright.

The Red man was pressed from this part of the west, (3)
he's likely no more to return, to the banks of the Red River where seldom if ever their flickering campfires burn.

How often at night when the heavens are bright, (4)
with the light from the glittering stars,
have I stood there amazed and asked as I gazed,

if their glory exceeds that of ours.

Oh, I love these wild flowers in this dear land of ours, (5)
the curlew I love to hear cry,
and I love the white rocks and the antelope flocks,
that graze on the mountain slopes high.

Oh give me a land where the bright diamond sand, (6)
flows leisurely down in the stream;
where the graceful white swan goes gliding along,
like a maid in a heavenly dream.

then I would not exchange my home on the range, (7)
where the deer and the antelope play;
where seldom is heard a discouraging word,
and the skies are not cloudy all day.

8 Success through Creativity

Activity 1 - Act out

Three friends are talking about an exhibition that is going to be held in their school.

Lasith : I've just heard something that will make you all happy.

Abdul : What's it, Lasith?

Lasith : There's going to be an exhibition to mark the Environment Day, which falls next month.

Radha : Wow! Who told you?

Lasith : Samith, whom I met at the canteen a little while ago. You know, those who would like to take part in it should give their names to Ms. Sarojani Weerakoon, who is the teacher-in-charge of the Environment Society.

Faraz : Where are they going to have it?

Lasith : In the school main hall, where we had a blood donation camp last month.

Radha : Let's present something at the exhibition, shall we?

Lasith : That would be great! We need to come up with something really good.

Radha : Yes. mmm....., what about upcycling?

Faraz : Upcycling? That's a term which I've never heard before!

Activity 2 Reading

Read the above conversation and answer the questions given below.

1. What is the event mentioned?
2. Who told Lasith about it?
3. Why is it being held?
4. What was held in the school main hall last month?
5. What does Radha suggest?

Relative Pronouns

The highlighted words in the conversation are called relative pronouns.

	People (personal)	Things (non-personal)
subject	who, that	which or that object	whom or that	which or that possessive	whose	whose

▲ In addition, we use where with nouns that refer to a place and when with nouns that refer to a time.

▲ A relative clause, i.e. a clause that begins with a relative pronoun, gives us information about the noun that comes before it.

e.g. :- There's going to be an exhibition to mark the Environment Day, which falls next month.

▲ The underlined relative clause tells us something about the Environment Day.

▲ There are two types of relative clauses: defining relative clauses and non-defining relative clauses.

▲ We use a defining relative clause to indicate which particular person or thing we are talking about.

e.g. :- The boy who came first in the essay competition is in my brother's class.

▲ The relative clause who came first in the essay competition identifies the noun coming before it. In other words without the relative clause it would be unclear which boy is being talked about.

▲ We use a non-defining relative clause to give additional, non-essential information about a person or thing.

e.g. :- Our class teacher, who always comes to school early, is very kind and hardworking.

▲ The relative clause who always comes to school early merely gives some additional information about our class teacher. In other words, it is not essential for the sentence to be meaningful. It is important to remember that we should use a comma before a non-defining relative clause.

e.g. :- I borrowed this novel from Suresh, who lives down our lane.

▲ If the non-defining relative clause comes in the middle of the sentence we should use a comma both before it and after it.

e.g. :- Suresh, who reads a lot, loves learning new words.

▲ We do not use the relative pronoun 'that' with non-defining relative clauses.

Activity 3 Grammar

Fill in the blanks with the relative pronouns given in the box.

who, which, whom, whose, where, when

- 1) A surgeon is a doctor performs operations.
- 2) A thermometer is an instrument is used to measure temperature.
- 3) Nisam, is one of my close friends, rang me yesterday.
- 4) I've got a cousin hobby is gardening.
- 5) Tell me a time we can meet.
- 6) It's an old movie title I have forgotten.
- 7) The factory my uncle works is going to close down.
- 8) My friend Ravi, we met at the library yesterday, reads at least two books every month.

Activity 4 Grammar

Add commas where necessary. (Remember not all sentences need them.)

- 1) This is the dictionary which I bought yesterday.
- 2) My youngest brother who is in grade four can sing well.
- 3) The children's film 'Handaya' which was directed by Titus Totawatte won an international award.
- 4) Do you know the boy who is standing near the gate?
- 5) Rice which is grown in many Asian countries is the staple food of Sri Lanka.
- 6) Sujitha whose father works in an embassy has a large collection of foreign stamps.
- 7) The rice which we had for lunch today was very good.

- 8) Sujitha is the girl whose father works in an embassy.
- 9) Show me the place where the accident took place.
- 10) Raj likes visiting Bandarawela where his uncle has a small tea factory.

Activity 5 Reading

Upcycling - 'Turning Trash into Treasure'

Can you remember the last time you dropped an empty yoghurt pot in a litter bin or threw away that cardboard box that your pair of shoes came in? When you were disposing of them, did you pause for a second to think that you might have found some creative use for them? For example, you could well have made a lovely vase with the empty yoghurt pot. That is what is known as upcycling: the process of turning old or disposable materials into something useful and often beautiful.

Upcycling can be beneficial in many ways. To begin with, it gives us the opportunity to tap into our capacity for creative thinking, which, in turn, could help us to cultivate new and useful hobbies. It can also be seen as a good way of saving money and of being thrifty as we think of new uses for things which we would otherwise simply throw away. This, in turn, helps keep the environment clean and beautiful. Furthermore, upcycling may provide people with opportunities for self-employment.

Read the passage and answer the questions.

- 1) What is upcycling?
- 2) What may be converted into a vase?
- 3) Name two advantages of upcycling.
- 4) Find two relative pronouns used in the passage.
- 5) Find words in the passage which mean much the same as the following:
 - a) advantageous:
 - b) recall:
 - c) a set of steps for doing or making something:

Activity 6 Listening

You will hear an announcement about the winners of an upcycling competition. Listen to it and write numbers from 1 to 5 under the relevant pictures in the order the winners have won the places.

_____ _____ _____

(B)

(C)

_____ _____

(D)

(E)

Activity 7 Speaking

Imagine that the upcycling competition was held in your school. Conduct an interview with the leader of a winning team.

Use question words such as what, how, when, who, why, how long, etc.

e.g. :- “Congratulations on winning the place in the upcycling competition. Your creation was truly amazing. How did you get this idea, in the first place?”

Activity 8 Writing

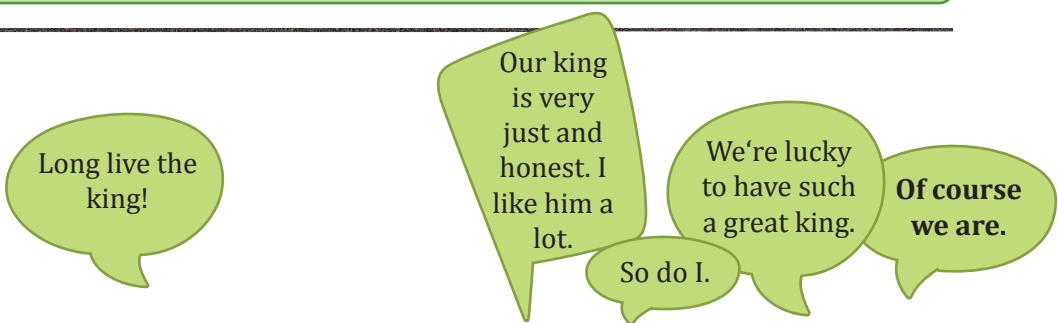

Decide on some object that you can upcycle into something better or more beautiful. Write a set of instructions to show how to do it.

The Greatest Wealth

9

Activity 1 - Act out

Once there was a kind and generous king. He looked after his people well. His people, in return, loved him and worked hard to build the country. Their country was very prosperous.

Unfortunately, as time passed, the king became lazy. He ate a lot of unhealthy food and wasted his time on trivial things. He hated doing routine exercises usually expected of kings. Soon, he became overweight and fell sick often. The king, who had once been active and energetic, was now lethargic and unhappy.

Oh! It's so hard to walk.
I feel really tired.

It looks like our king has become a real lazy bones.

I'm worried about His Majesty's health.

So am I.
Doesn't he listen to anybody?

No, he doesn't.

One day.....

That's good news. Ask him to come to the palace.

Can you please come to the palace to see our king, who's not well?

Your Majesty, a wise man has come to our country. He claims he can cure any sickness.

I'm sorry I can't. If the king comes to me, I will cure him. But you have to make sure that he walks all the way here. Otherwise my treatments won't work.

Next day, the king visited the wise man. It was a long walk to the wise man's house.

Can you cure me?

Yes, I can. But I need to find a rare herb to prepare the cure for you. Could you please come tomorrow?

Do you want me to walk all this way again?

Yes. Don't worry. My medicine will soon make you better. Er, one other thing, Your Majesty. You have to eat more fruit and vegetables and cut down on sugar. It will speed up your recovery.

For thirty days, the wise man made the king walk from the palace to his hut saying on each day that he had not yet found the herb for the cure. Gradually, with all the exercise, the king began to lose weight and feel better. On the thirty first day

Are you feeling any better now, Your Majesty?

Yes, indeed. The greatest wealth is health. Thank you for making me realize it.

Yes, I am. I've lost a lot of weight and I can move easily now.

Your Majesty, your unhealthy lifestyle made you ill and unhappy. All your riches will be useless if you are not healthy..

Number the sentences in the correct order to form the story.

- a. Once upon a time there was a kind- hearted king. [1]
- b. He ruled his country justly and his countrymen loved him. []
- c. One day, the king heard that a wise man who could cure any illness had come to his country. []

Uncle Ravi : Hello, Pavan. This is Uncle Ravi.

Pavan:

Uncle Ravi: I'm fine, thanks. How's everybody?

Pavan:

Uncle Ravi: Pavan, is grandpa at home? Can I speak to him, please?

Pavan:

Uncle Ravi: No, it's okay. How is he? I hope he's in good health?

Pavan:

Uncle Ravi: Good! He needs exercises as well. Pavan, why don't you encourage him to take a short walk in the evenings? Perhaps you can accompany him.

Pavan:

Uncle Ravi: Thanks, son. Say hello to everybody for me and, er, tell grandpa that I called. I'll call him again tomorrow if I have time.

Pavan:

Uncle Ravi: Bye!

- We're all fine, thanks.
- Hi uncle, how are you?
- Yes, he's fine. He takes his medicine regularly and he is very careful with his diet.
- I'll tell him, Uncle Ravi. Bye!
- Grandpa is taking a nap. Shall I wake him up?
- Sure. That'd be fun.

Activity 4

Read the given utterances and do activity 3 in the workbook unit 9.

If we do regular exercises, we will be healthy.

If it rains, we will get wet.

If you drink a lot of milk, you will have strong bones and teeth.

If you eat a lot of sweets, you will become overweight.

If you get wet, you will catch a cold.

If I go to the pharmacy, I will buy a roll of bandage.

Learning point

Conditional Sentences Type 1

Type 1 conditional sentences are used to refer to:

- actions that are likely to happen (realistic situations)

The result will happen only if the condition is fulfilled.

Form:

If clause (condition)	Main clause (result)
If + simple present tense,	simple future tense

If I go to the pharmacy, I will buy a roll of bandage.

If the if - clause comes first, you should use a comma to separate the two clauses.

The main clause can come before the if clause.

When this happens, we do not use a comma to separate the two clauses.

- I will buy a roll of bandage if I go to the pharmacy.

Activity 5 Grammar

Refer to the table and build conditional sentences. Make the necessary punctuation and capitalization changes.

If	I find your book	I will bathe at the hot water springs
	I visit Trincomalee	I will bring it to you
	it doesn't rain today	they will call off the match
	it rains today	they will be the champions
	Ruwani comes to school today	the teacher will give her a role in the play
	our team wins the match today	I will water the plants

e.g. :- If I find your book, I will bring it to you.

Activity 6 Writing

Use your own ideas and complete these clauses to form conditional sentences.

1. If I'm hungry,
2. If my friend Ram visits me,
3. if you don't study hard.
4. If Sachini catches the 6 o'clock train,
5. If they like the house,
6. I will make some tea
7., I will tidy up the room.

Learning point

Conditional Sentences Type 2

Type 2 conditional sentences are used when the action or situation in the if-clause is

1. unlikely to happen

e.g. :- If I saw a robbery, I would call the police.

or

2. contrary to fact i.e. the opposite of the real situation.

e.g. :- If I knew his phone number, I would give him a call.

(real situation - I don't know his phone number.)

Form:

If clause (condition)

Main clause (result)

If + simple past tense,

would + verb

- It is important to remember that although the past tense is used in the if-clause, (knew/saw) the meaning is either present or future, NOT past.

The main clause can come before the if clause.

e.g. :- I would give him a call if I knew his phone number.

or

If I knew his phone number, I would give him a call.

- 'Were' can be used with any subject (PLURAL OR SINGULAR).

e.g. :- If I were a bird, I would fly around the world.

If he were here, he would help us.

- However, nowadays people tend to use 'was' with singular subjects.

e.g. :- If I was a bird, I would fly around the world.

If he was here, he would help us.

Activity 7 Grammar

Match the clauses and form meaningful sentences.

- If I knew Sahan's address, if I had more time.
- I would sail around the world there would be more vehicles on the road.
- If today was Monday, if the earth suddenly stopped spinning?
- I would learn to play a musical instrument the crops would grow better.
- If we had more rain, if I had a ship.
- If my uncle had a motorbike, he would take me for a ride.
- What would happen I would send him a birthday card.

Activity 8 Reading

Physical Fitness and the Value of Exercise

Physical fitness refers to being healthy in body. Being physically fit gives us the ability to engage in daily activities and sports without being unduly tired. Together with nutrition, rest and relaxation, physical exercises also play a major role in determining the level of a person's physical fitness.

There are many ways that exercises help us to be healthy. When we exercise, we burn calories and when we burn calories regularly, we do not become overweight. Thus, exercising is very useful in maintaining a healthy weight. It also helps to improve heart and lung health besides increasing our energy levels. Another advantage is that regular physical exercises also contribute to preventing illnesses. Exercising brings down unhealthy cholesterol levels and minimises the risk of heart disease. Apart from that, when you are physically active, you sleep better at night. A good night's sleep relaxes and rejuvenates your body. As a result, you feel refreshed and stress-free.

In modern society, addiction to television, smart phones and computers tends to keep people away from physical activities. This is very harmful to our health. Contrary to what some may believe, exercising does not have to be tedious or monotonous. It does not have to be merely stretching, running or lifting weights . It can be an enjoyable activity such as hiking, swimming, cycling or dancing. You can turn it into a social event which you can enjoy with your friends. This way it will boost not only your physical well-being but your mental well-being too.

Activity 9 Reading and Writing

STEP 1

Read the given short descriptions.

We touch many surfaces with our hands. Therefore it is important to wash our hands before and after eating and after using the toilet.

Immunization minimizes the risk of getting dangerous diseases like polio, diphtheria and tuberculosis. Getting yourself vaccinated at the right time is a must to prevent such diseases.

Diseases can spread through personal items like towels, combs, dining plates and drinking glasses. Therefore, they should not be shared with anybody.

Inactive lifestyle is unhealthy. Doing exercises regularly helps our bodies to be strong and healthy.

Vitamins give us immunity against diseases. Taking a balanced meal with plenty of fruit and vegetables helps us to fight diseases.

We need enough sleep to restore our bodies. Sleep also helps our bodies to grow and strengthen our memory.

STEP 2

Now rewrite the following jumbled sentences correctly.

- I. hands/wash/using/before/and/eating/toilet/after/the/and/after e.g. :- Wash hands before and after eating and after using the toilet.

Be Happy, be Bright, be You! 10

Activity 1 - Act out

The teacher has given the students an application form to fill in the three optional subjects that they hope to study in grade ten. Nisali and her friends are discussing the optional subjects they hope to select.

Kalani : When do we hand over the application?

Nisali : On or before the 15th. Have you decided on the three subjects you want to follow?

Kalani : Oh, that's the hardest decision. I don't know what to choose.

Amali : Me neither. I like almost all these subjects.

Raju : Come on! You can only select three.

Nisali : Mmm... I'm going to select English Literature. I like it.

Amali : I like it too but my mother wants me to do Art.

Raju : That's a good decision. I've seen your drawings and they are quite good.

Amali : Oh! Thank you, Raju.

Kalani : Can I change the subjects once I have selected them? I mean if they're too difficult for me?

Nisali : No. I don't think so.

- Amali : Shouldn't we discuss this with our parents before we make a decision?
- Kalani : Yes, we should.
- Raju : Hey, what's this? Do you know anything about Design and Technology?
- Nisali : Design and Technology? It's the first time I've heard of it.
- Raju : Let's meet our teacher and ask her. She's sure to know about it.

Activity 2 Reading

Read the conversation and answer the questions.

1. What are the friends talking about?
2. How many subjects should they select?
3. Who likes English Literature?
4. What does Amali's mother want her to do?
5. Are they allowed to change the subjects they select?
6. Why is Raju going to meet the teacher?

Grammar

Raju met the teacher. The teacher wanted to know about their discussion. This is how Raju reported their conversation to the teacher.

“I'm going to select English Literature”

“Can I change the subjects once I have selected them?”

“My mother wants me to do Art”

Nisali said that she was going to select English Literature. (Statement)

Kalani asked whether she could change the subjects once she had selected them. (Question)

Amali said that her mother wanted her to do Art. (Statement)

Learning point

Reported speech

If we report what another person has said, we usually do not use the speaker's exact words (direct speech), but we use reported speech (indirect speech). When reporting, the following changes can occur in the reported statement.

- A backshift in the tense

Present tense → Past tense

Past tense → Past perfect tense

Present perfect tense → Past perfect tense

Past perfect tense → Past perfect tense

- A change in pronouns

- A change in time and place expressions

Today → that day

Yesterday → the day before / the previous day

Last week → the week before / the previous week

Next week → the following week

Tomorrow → the next day / the following day

Now → then

Here → there

This → that

The structure of reporting is a little different depending on whether you report an imperative, a question or a statement.

Imperatives
Type	Example
direct speech	"Amali, do Art."
reported speech	She told Amali to do Art.

Statements
Type	Example
direct speech	"I like English Literature."
reported speech (no backshift)	She says that she likes English Literature.
reported speech (backshift)	She said that she liked English Literature.

Questions
	Type	Example
Wh questions	direct speech	"When do we have to hand over the application?"
	reported speech	He asked when they had to hand over the application.
Yes/no questions	direct speech	"Can I change the subjects?"
	reported speech	She asked whether / if she could change the subjects.

Activity 3 Grammar

Write the following in reported speech.

1. The teacher said to us, "You need to select three optional subjects."
2. Farzana said to me, " I have to buy some stamps."
3. My parents said to me, "Don't get late."
4. Prathiba asked me, "Where did you go yesterday?"
5. Inura asked Mihiri, "Can you lend me your notes tomorrow?"

*Now complete activities 1 & 2 in Unit 10 of your workbook.

Activity 4 Listening

You are going to listen to a description of the favourite optional subjects selected by a group of students.

Listen to the description and label the graph in activity 3 of unit 10 of your workbook.

*Now complete activities 3 & 4 in unit 10 of your workbook.

Activity 5 Reading

But he did not give up...

At around 5:30 in the evening on December 10, 1914, a huge explosion broke out in West Orange, New Jersey. It happened in the famous inventor Thomas Edison's plant. In no time most of the buildings were in flames. Although many fire departments rushed to the scene, the fire was too powerful to be put out quickly.

Edison's 24-year-old son Charles painfully watched the fire destroy his father's work. Edison calmly walked over to him. In a soft voice he told his son, "Go and call your mother and all her friends. They'll never see a fire like this again." When Charles objected, Edison said, "It's all right. We've just got rid of a lot of rubbish." Edison could have wept, yelled in anger, or locked himself in his house in a state of depression. But instead, he put on a smile and told his son to call his mother to enjoy the spectacle.

Later, at the scene of the blaze, Edison told one of the reporters, "Although I am over 67 years old, I'll start all over again tomorrow." He stuck to his word and immediately began the crucial task of rebuilding his plant.

The flames had destroyed years of priceless records and prototypes. But after just three weeks, with a loan from his friend Henry Ford, Edison got a part of the plant up and running again. His employees worked double shifts and set to work producing more than ever. Edison became a legend in history because he did not give up easily.

Activity 6 Reading

Read the passage ‘But he did not give up’ and answer the questions.

1. What happened on December 10, 1914?
2. Where did this incident happen?
3. What did Edison want his son and the reporter to do ?
4. What did Edison tell his son?
5. How did edison react to the incident?
6. Who helped Edison with a loan?

A Day without the Sun

Have you ever wondered how important the Sun is to us here on Earth? What would happen if the Sun suddenly disappeared?

The Sun is a star and it is the centre of our solar system. Everything in our solar system revolves around the Sun. Therefore, the Sun is crucial to life on Earth as well as to the existence of all the other planets around us.

space in a straight line.

The Sun's immense mass draws all the other planets in the solar system towards it. Since the Earth and all the other planets are moving very fast through space, the Sun's presence keeps them moving around it. If the Sun were to suddenly disappear, the Earth and the other planets would continue their forward motion, and fly off into outer

So what would happen to us if the Sun suddenly went out? As light from the Sun takes eight and a half minutes to reach the Earth, we wouldn't notice it immediately but nine minutes later, we'd find ourselves in complete darkness.

As the Sun was illuminating the Moon, it too would disappear! The same would happen to many other celestial bodies in the sky, such as planets, which we see only because of the Sun's reflected light. They too would disappear in a similar fashion like the Moon.

Without the Sun's warmth, Earth would quickly become a much colder place. Fortunately, Earth retains enough heat fairly well, so humans would not freeze instantly. But within a year, the global surface temperature could drop well below -100° F! However, with time it will continue to drop to about -400° F.

Without the Sun's rays, all photosynthesis on Earth would stop. All plants would die and, eventually, all animals that rely on plants for food — including humans — would die, too. While some inventive humans might be able to survive on a Sun-less Earth for several days, months, or even years, life without the Sun would eventually prove to be impossible on Earth.

Here is a story of two groups of people who had the courage and determination to overcome adversity through innovation.

They brought the sun down!

The villages of Rjukan, Norway, and Viganella, Italy, are both situated in deep valleys. The mountains around these valleys block the sun's rays from reaching the two villages for up to six months every year. Therefore, neither Rjukan nor Viganella enjoys the luxury of sunlight like we do. Can you imagine the lives of people in these villages without sunlight for almost six months?

This is how they have brightened their day.

To illuminate those darker winter months, the two villages have built huge mirrors that track the sun and reflect daylight downwards. Viganella completed its huge computer-controlled mirror in 2006. Rjukan also followed the same method , mounting a mirror that will reflect a 600 square metre (6,500 square foot) beam of sunshine into the town square below.

Be Yourself

The world would like to change you;
there are pressures all around.
You must decide just who you are,
then firmly hold your ground.

You have an image of yourself,
an ideal sense of you;
and to this vision you must always struggle to be true.

You know what you are good at,
and you know where talents lie;
but if you're ruled by others,
your uniqueness could pass by.

Remember there is much to learn;
but all new things aren't good.
Wisdom lies in what you've learned and what you have withstood.

So, be yourself and don't allow the world to take control.
Preserving your identity
is life's most precious goal.

Game- Ten Questions.

The poet in BE YOURSELF says "All new things aren't good". Form groups and in your groups think of something in modern society which, you think, is not good for young children. Now, one member from your group will go in front of the class. The other students of the class must guess the item that you and your group discussed. The rest of the class can ask up to TEN questions from your group member about the name of the item that they have to guess.

e.g.:- Where can you find it?
What colour is it?
Who uses it most?
