Foreword

With the continuous advancement of the world, the education sector too is transformed. Therefore, if we require the creation of a student community who could confront the future challenges successfully, our learning teaching process must constantly utilize effective approaches. It is our responsibility to disseminate the knowledge of the new world while assisting to create global citizens with good values. Our department is actively engaged in producing learning tools with the great aim of contributing to enlighten the minds of the children of the country.

A textbook is a repository of knowledge. At times, it takes us to a world of entertainment while developing our critical thinking faculties. It promotes our hidden potentials. In the coming years, the memories related to these textbooks will bring you happiness. While making the maximum use of this valuable learning tool, you must essentially access other useful knowledge spaces too. This textbook is offered to you free of charge as a great gift of the free education. Only you can add a value to the great fortune that has been spent by the government to print these textbooks. I wish that you would gain the ability to enlighten the future as citizens with knowledge and values by using this textbook.

I would like to bestow my sincere thanks on the panels of writers, editors and reviewers as well as on the staff of the Educational Publications Department for the contribution made on this endeavor.

W. M. Jayantha Wickramanayaka,
Commissioner General of Educational Publications

A Word to the Teacher

The Board of Writers and Editors are honoured to be a part of this national endeavour to write and edit the Grade 11 English textbook and workbook for the students of this country. The textbook is designed to help the students to learn and use language in different situations locally and internationally. The book also contains additional information for the teachers in the form of competency levels and the corresponding activities with the hope of making the task of teaching easier. Furthermore, the book is designed to accommodate the different and varying proficiency levels of the students with the hope of addressing the needs of the larger student population of this country. In addition, the lessons are chronologically sequenced to avoid any confusion that may arise in the teaching process.

It is recommended that this book be used as a guide to the teachers and the students on the expected national standards and teachers are encouraged to use supplementary material as much as possible in the classroom. We thank all those who worked with us and hope that we will be able to make a difference in the lives of our students who are keen and enthusiastic to learn English.

Activity 06

Read the folktale given below and answer the questions.

The man who never lied

An African Folktale

Once upon a time there lived a wise man by the name of Mamad. He never lied. All the people in the land, even the ones who lived twenty days away, knew about him.

The king heard about Mamad and ordered his soldiers to bring him to the palace. He looked at the wise man and asked:

"Mamad, is it true, that you have never lied?"

"It's true."

"And you will never lie in your life?"

"I'm sure about that."

"Okay, tell the truth, but be careful! The lie is cunning and it gets on your tongue easily."

Several days passed and the king called Mamad once again. There was a big crowd: the king was about to go hunting. The king held his horse by the mane, his left foot was already on the stirrup. He ordered Mamad.

"Go to my summer palace and tell the queen I will be with her for lunch tomorrow. Tell her to prepare a big feast. You will have lunch with me then."

Mamad bowed down and went to the queen. Then the king laughed and said:

"We won't go hunting and now Mamad will lie to the queen. Tomorrow we will laugh on his behalf."

But the wise Mamad went to the palace and said:

"May be you should prepare a big feast for lunch tomorrow, and may be you shouldn't. May be the king will come by noon, and may be he won't."

"Tell me. Will he come, or won't he?" - asked the queen.

"I don't know whether he puts his right foot on the stirrup, or he puts his left foot on the ground after I left."

Everybody waited for the king. He came the next day and said to the queen:

"The wise Mamad, who never lies, lied to you yesterday."

But the queen told him about the words of Mamad. And the king realized that the wise man never lies, and says only that, which he saw with his own eyes.

1. Are these statements TRUE or FALSE? Indicate T or F against each statement.
 - a. The name of the wise man is Mamad. ()
 - b. The king's right foot was already on the stirrup. ()
 - c. The king ordered Mamad to go hunting. ()
 - d. The king did not go hunting although he said so to Mamad. ()
 - e. Mamad lied to the queen about the king. ()

2. Give short answers to the following questions.
 - a. Who brought Mamad to the palace?
 - b. What was Mamad's special quality?
 - c. Where was Mamad ordered to go by the king?
 - d. Copy the sentence which shows Mamad obeyed king's order.
 - e. What did the king realize at the end?
 - f. What do the following words in bold type refer to?
 - i. it
 - ii. you
 - g. Find synonyms for the following words from the story.
 - i. a large meal
 - ii. understood

Activity 07

Read the following sentences taken from the folktale. They are all in past tense.

Graphite is used for many things varying from pencil making to making different valuable products. Natural graphite is mostly consumed for refractories, steelmaking, expanded graphite, brake linings, foundry facings and lubricants. Bogala graphite mines are situated in Galigamuwa, Sri Lanka. The mines were discovered first during the Dutch reign and later by the British in 1920. Tons and tons of graphite are mined annually and the lots are sent to Japan, UK and Europe. The mine is a kilometre at its deepest point. People with different interests reach Bogala. Some visit for educational purposes, some as an adventurous activity and some merely to engage in photography. The visitors are advised to wear protective gear such as hard hats and steel toed boots. This is to ensure the safety of the visitors and to maintain the immaculate record of ‘zero’ accidents.

15. Read the extract and answer the questions given.

Within two weeks we managed to make a cheerful home for ourselves. We cleaned out the pond and repaired its sides with the stones we carried up.

One evening, of the second week, Jinna and I were outside our cave. He was lying on a rock and I was sitting on another not far away when he called to me. "Upali, Mahattaya [Mister Upali] look!"

Through the trees we could see a light dipping and rising on the other side of the island.

"There it is! The light's going down There, it's rising now It's moving again."

I, too, could see the light moving up and down quite clearly.

"Remember that Podi Gamarala* told us there was a ghost on the other side of the island?" Jinna asked me.

I had never been very interested in ghost stories, not even when I was very young. I hadn't thought much about whether there were ghosts or not. Perhaps I have only thought about ghosts when I had to go at night through a thick jungle, or past a cemetery. I wasn't scared by Jinna's discovery, only curious.

"We can't get through this jungle now- we can't do it even in daytime," I said.

"Shall we get into the canoe and go round to the other side?"

Martin Wickramasinghe- Madol Doova. Translated by Prof. Ashley Halpe

What is GMT?

Greenwich Mean (or Meridian) Time is international time and the basis of the world time clock. This gives the exact date and time of different locations of the world. Hence, Greenwich is the place from where all time zones are measured. The Greenwich Meridian (Prime Meridian or Longitude Zero degrees) marks the starting point of every time zone in the world. GMT is Greenwich Mean (or Meridian) Time, it is the mean (average) time that the earth takes to rotate from noon-to-noon. This is widely regarded as the correct time for every international time zone.

The origin of GMT is in Greenwich, England and in operation since 1884. Greenwich in England is located at 0° 0' 0" Longitude and 51° 28' 38" N Latitude (North of the Equator). The time is usually displayed using both the 24-hour format (0 - 24) or the 12-hour format (1 - 12 a.m./p.m.). Sri Lankan Standard Time is 5.5 hours (5 hours 30 minutes) ahead of Greenwich Mean Time.

READING IS FUN

Activity 01

Here is an extract from one of the 'Famous Five' books written by Enid Blyton: FIVE HAVE PLENTY OF FUN. Read it and do the activities that follow.

All was quiet in Kirrin Cottage. The two boys slept soundly in their room, and the girls: George and Anne slept without stirring in theirs. Berta was up in Joan's attic room, and hadn't moved since she had flopped into bed.

Timmy was on George's feet, as usual, and Sally the poodle was curled up in the crook of Berta's knees, looking like a ball of black wool! Nobody stirred. A black cloud crept up the sky and blotted out the stars one by one. Then a low roll of thunder came. It was far off, and only a rumble, but it woke both the dogs, and it woke Anne too.

She opened her eyes, wondering what the noise was. Then she knew - it was thunder.

'Oh, I hope a storm won't come and break up this wonderful weather!' she thought, as she lay and listened. She turned towards the open window and looked for the stars, but there were none to see.

'Well, if a storm's coming, I'll go and watch it at the window,' thought Anne. 'It should be a magnificent sight over Kirrin Bay. I'm so hot too - I'd like a breath of fresh air at the window!'

She got quietly out of bed and padded over to the open window. She leaned out, sniffing the cool air outside. The night was very dark indeed, because of the great black cloud.

The thunder came again, but not very near- just a low growl. Timmy jumped off George's bed and went to join Anne. He put his great paws up on the windowsill and looked out solemnly over the bay.

And then both he and Anne heard another sound - a faraway chug-chug-chug-chug-chug.

‘It’s a motor-boat,’ said Anne, listening. ‘Isn’t it Timmy? Someone’s having a very late trip! Can you see any ship-lights, Tim? I can’t.’

The engine of the motor-boat cut out just then, and there was complete silence except for the swish-swash-swish of the waves on the beach. Anne strained her eyes to see if she could spot any light anywhere to show where the motor-boat was. It sounded quite far out on the bay. Why had it stopped on the water? Why hadn’t it gone to the jetty?

Then she did see a light, but a very faint one, right out at the entrance of the bay, about the middle. It shone for a while, moved here and there, and then disappeared. Anne was puzzled.

Indicate whether the following sentences are TRUE or FALSE.

1. The incident described happened in the night. (.....)
2. One dog was sleeping with the children. (.....)
3. The window was open when the children went to sleep. (.....)
4. George joined Anne to watch the storm at the window. (.....)

 - a. a noise of thunder
 - b. a dog barking
 - c. a sound of waves
5. The light Anne saw was
 - a. very bright
 - b. moving
 - c. very near

Activity 03

What happened to Anne on that day is given below but the sentences are not in the correct order.

Put them in the correct order by numbering the sentences from one to ten in the boxes.

- A. Next Timmy too jumped off bed and joined Anne.
- B. She wondered for some time and then understood it was thunder.
- C. First Anne heard a sound and woke up.
- D. And then, both of them heard another sound.
- E. Then there was complete silence except for the sound of waves.
- F. Later, Anne saw a faint light which disappeared after a little while.
- G. After that, she got out of bed and walked to the open window.
- H. Next she turned towards the window and looked at the sky.
- I. Then she decided to watch the coming storm.
- J. Finally Anne lay awake puzzled at what she heard and saw.

The Little Old Lady

by Rodney Bennett

*That little grey-haired lady
Is as old as old can be,
Yet once she was a little girl,
A little girl like me.*

*She liked to skip instead of walk,
She wore her hair in curls;
She went to school at nine, and played
With other little girls.*

*I wonder if, in years and years,
Some little girl at play,
Who's very like what I am now,
Will stop to look my way,*

*And think: "That grey-haired lady
Is as old as old can be,
Yet once she was a little girl,
A little girl like me."*

Goddess Demeter and Her Daughter Persephone

Demeter was the Greek goddess of harvest. She was a kind and gentle goddess. She made the weather mild and helped the crops to grow. During those days people had all they wanted to eat.

Demeter had a beautiful daughter named Persephone. Mother and daughter loved each other and enjoyed their time together. With time, Persephone grew into a beautiful young woman.

One day, Hades, the god of the underworld saw Persephone and wanted to make her his wife. So he took her to the underworld by force. When Demeter got to know about this she became sad and angry. She refused to grow crops until she got her daughter back. The earth became barren. People had no food. They prayed to Zeus, the king of gods asking his help. Zeus felt sorry and ordered Hermes, the messenger god to bring Persephone back from the underworld.

Meanwhile Persephone was also unhappy in the underworld. She missed her mother and refused to eat anything. But Hades was very kind to her. He persuaded her to eat some pomegranate seeds. Persephone did not know about the rule that said those who eat something in the underworld would have to stay there.

When Hermes arrived in the underworld she had already eaten the pomegranate seeds. "You know the rules," Hades said. "She can live with her mother for eight months. But during the last four months she has to live here as the queen of the underworld."

This is the story of the four seasons. Demeter is happy when Persephone lives with her. In her happiness she makes crops grow healthy and flowers bloom everywhere. These are the spring, summer and autumn seasons. But towards the end of the autumn when Persephone goes back to underworld, Demeter becomes sad. Leaves fall, crops are at an end and land becomes barren. This is the cold winter season.

7. Given below is an extract from Gulliver's Travels by Jonathan Swift. Here "I" is referred to Gulliver. Read and answer the questions that follow.

At this time, I slept on the floor of the church or outside on the ground. But the king said to his workmen: ' Make a bed for him.' So they brought 600 little beds to my house and made them into one big bed.

Then the king and his great men met and discussed with me.

' Perhaps he is dangerous,' said the first man. ' We cannot untie his strings.'
' He eats too much food,' said the second man. ' The people of our country will be hungry'.

'Let's kill him now,' said the third man.' We can do it when he is sleeping.'
'No,' said his friend.' What can we do with his dead body? It is too big.'

Then a man said to the king:' Some people tried to kill this big man with their arrows, but he was kind to them. He did not hurt them.'

' This is good,' said the king.' We will not kill him now. But we will teach him our language.'

They did this, and in about three weeks I could speak quite well.

The king often came to see me and helped my teachers. We began to talk.

' Please untie these strings,' I asked him.

' Not now,' he answered.' But I will think about it. First — and do not be angry — my men will look at your things.'

'I'll happily show your men these things,' I answered, 'but I'll never hurt you or your people with them.'

The next day two men came and walked over me. They looked inside my clothes. They made notes on everything — my notebook, the glasses for my weak eyes, my money and my money-bag.

The king called to me: 'Your sword is as big as five men. Please give it to me. Wait! I will bring more men.'

Three thousand men stood round me and watched.

'Pull out your sword now!' shouted the king.

I took my sword from under my clothes. The sun shone on it and hurt everybody's eyes. I put it on the ground and the king's men quickly carried it away.

' Now give me those other strange things,' he shouted.

I gave him my guns.

After this, the king sent me his 'Rules':
